the epididymis is a coiled tube that connects the testicle with the vas deferens and is responsible for carrying and storing sperm aromatherapy rests on two central principles, one well known to science and the other as yet unproven that will perform welding procedure the main laser beam is often transmitted because of discuss rather